FORECASTS FOR FLOCKMASTERS

Government to Provide Weather Bulletins During Dipping, Shearing

Daily weather forecasts will be supplied to sheepmen in most localities during the dipping, lambing and shearing season, upon application according to an announcement sent to Ogdens today by J. Cecil Alter, director of the Salt Lake branch of the United States weather bureau. The announcement follows:

The daily weather forecasts can probably be supplied at government expense to any responsible person or firm, in any important sheep dipping, lambing, or shearing locality, in touch with the telephone or telegraph, during the critical seasons of spring activities.

Applications for the weather forecasts should be made to this office, stating location, means of communication, name and address of proposed recipient, manner of disseminating the information to the public, and approximate numbers of sheep involved.

The weekly weather forecasts issued on Saturday, each week, for the general weather of the coming week, may be available in the same manner as the daily, on proper request.

GOSHEN FLAYS UTAH REFORMERS

"Most Autocratic Church in America Dictates Legislation," Minister Says

"Lincoln's greatest gift as a statesman and a man consisted in his ability to distinguish between primary and secondary considerations," said Dr. Elmer I. Goshen in the course of an eloquent lecture on that statesman at the First Congregational church last night.

"He succeeded at the present time in state legislatures and federal offices by men who have neither his ability, nor his vision, nor his moral integrity of seeing a purpose clear, and following it without any turning to the right or to the left."

"The one man that will eventually stand next to him in the apostolical succession of America's great and good men, is that of Woodrow Wilson, who, through the course of five years, saved the face and the fame of this country, saved it from financial ruin by the greatest piece of financial legislation we have ever known, and ended his career by the most magnificent attempt to lash the hell bounds of war that mankind has ever witnessed. He suffered from the same class of people who counted no shame deep enough to heap upon the character of Lincoln in the time of his country's stress."

UNDERCURRENT OF REVOLT.

"Throughout this country at this moment there is a widespread undercurrent of revolt and crime and discontent. The constitution enabling the people to enjoy the right of liberty and the pursuit of happiness is being interpreted by a group of long-haired legislators, who take that constitution to mean that the legislators, of both sexes who take away from the people, little by little, and more and more everything that we know as liberty, and that we mean by happiness. With unemployment causing hard times in the homes of the people, and a crime wave unparalleled in our history sweeping over our cities we are asked to gaze upon a group of legislators of the State of Utah gathered together in Salt Lake City spending the people's time and the people's money deciding whether a full grown man may smoke a cigarette in a little while they will be equally busy deciding whether you may go to a picture show or a baseball game on Sunday. Then undoubtedly they will follow their mad craze by deciding whether or not they will let the wife of an honest man be bound to take the one step too many which will eventually result in widespread contempt for law and an outbreak of Bolshevism and anarchy that will make Russia look like a kindergarten."

UNENLIGHTENED MINDS.

"They do not know, are not able to recognize the distinction between first and secondary matters. Their whole attitude is to human kind that men and women are puppets to be made to do this or that as it pleases their unlightened and dictatorial minds."

"Some of my friends in Ogden, I hear, were kind enough to institute that in the employ of the tobacco trust—that my only business here is to help their interests. Twenty-two years ago I commenced my ministry here as the very apostle where now I stand. I was bought by nobody then, I have been bought by nobody since, and nobody ever will be able to buy the utterance of my lips. They said the same kind of thing when I opposed the prohibition movement. It was as untrue then as it is now. I was the prohibition movement as the beginning of a series of reform movements which would have as their result, not a higher regard for law, but a greater contempt for it, and I am living to see my prophecy proven kind in that way."

"The only thing to do with the organized liquor traffic, and that was to take it out of private hands and put it under government control. The movement to prohibit it altogether has made the business of the liquor traffic the place of residence, a convenient distillery."

STATE OF MORONI.

"Liberty as a priceless heritage, happiness as a consummate goal, goals of our joy, into which our children ought to be trained. They will not be trained by repression, inhibitions and prohibitions. At the present moment Utah's legislation is being dictated by men, members of the most autocratic religious organization in America who regard men and women as the subjects of their commands. The people must be helped to do as they say—to do what they wish, and have the right to do it. God help us if the status of Moroni ever becomes more significant than the Goddess of Liberty."

Impressionistic, dramatic, phrased in a perfect galaxy of wondrous English, Dr. Goshen held the attention of his audience for an hour. Here causing them to break out into loud applause, and there causing strong disapproval, but always provoking the mind to vigorous and fundamental thought.

OGDENITE SHOT AT GREEN RIVER

Frank Rhea, former Ogden man, was shot to death Sunday by Edgar Lovett, his roommate and co-worker at Green River, Wyo., according to advisers reaching Ogden this morning.

Earlier reports indicated that Rhea had been accidentally killed.

According to dispatches from Green River the men were employed as carmen in the Union Pacific yards there, and had retired to their rooms Sunday apparently in normal spirits.

Some time later Lovett is said to have emerged from the room and told his landlord to have his body sent to Cheyenne and Rhea's body to Ogden. It was reported that Lovett appeared to be under the influence of liquor and little attention was paid to his remarks.

Shortly after the shots were heard, other occupants of the room fled to the room and found both men dead.

At the inquest the coroner's jury returned a verdict showing that Rhea had been shot to death by Lovett, who committed suicide.

The men were boon companions, and had been for months. Rhea, who was 36 years old, had taken a paternal interest in the younger man, who was about 23. They were always together, and nothing is known of their lives that might have caused the tragedy. Rhea's body was brought to Ogden.

Meat — then and now

THE meat peddler of the old days, who killed his own live stock and then sold the meat from the tail of a cart, is gone from our larger towns and cities. He was a pioneer and did good service but he couldn't keep up with his job. Crude methods had to give way to new ideas in sanitation and distribution.

Concentration of population drove the peddler and his wagon out and brought the modern packing industry and the neighborhood retailer in his place.

And the modern packing business means this: That near the farms and ranches, the centers of live stock production, are packing plants that assemble and manufacture the meat products you use.

That swift and sanitary refrigerator cars carry your meat from these packing plants to every part of the country.

Dealers in towns and villages are supplied directly and regularly from these refrigerator cars.

And in cities the refrigerator car is unloaded into branch houses, chilled and sanitary, from which deliveries are made to your meat shop. And all the time the meat is kept so chilled that deterioration is prevented.

Swift & Company's plants and branches are co-ordinated, interchanging supply and supporting each other, when necessary, so that no section of the country may ever lack its daily meat.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Really and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.
